VEHICLE TRANSPORT CHECKLIST

To make sure your vehicle is transported safely and securely, and to protect your warranty, please use this checklist before your vehicle is dropped off/ picked up and transported.

- ☐ All fluids have been topped up
- ☐ I have disabled any non-standard alarm or immobiliser (or I have prepared detailed written instructions telling the driver how to turn off the alarm if it is triggered)

Securing vehicle and loose items

Your car needs to be prepared so nothing will get broken or stolen during transport.

CEVA has a policy of not transporting vehicles with personal or dangerous goods.

Personal goods includes vehicle spare parts and those items that are loosely placed within the vehicle and which do not form part of the standard new vehicle when purchased, including: blankets, tools, boxes and cartons, electrical items, liquid containers, cans, compact discs, satellite navigation devices and portable music/video equipment. Please note, baby seats and capsules may be left in vehicles while being transported.

Dangerous goods include all forms of ammunition, flares, firearms, and flammable gases and liquids such as BBQ gas bottles, firelighters and aerosols.

If any personal or dangerous goods are identified at the time of drop off or collection, you will be asked to remove these items from your vehicle prior to transportation.

Moving your car to Western Australia?

Western Australia has strict quarantine regulations to prevent the introduction of exotic pests, diseases and weeds found in other Australian states and territories. If you are transporting a vehicle to Western Australia, you need to make sure it is thoroughly cleaned before it is picked up by CEVA or dropped off at our depot. The vehicle needs to be completely free of mud, plant material and insects, including the windscreen, wiper well, grill and under wheel arches. You may be fined if your vehicle does not pass Western Australia's quarantine inspection. For further details on Western Australia's quarantine regulations see www.agric.wa.gov.au.

Drop off times at our depots is between 8.30am to 4.00pm Monday to Friday, with the exception of public holidays.
